

IMAGINE YOUR LIFE'S WORK IN OUR PIECE OF PARADISE

Vancouver Island, BC

Island Health is seeking an OR Electroneurophysiology (ENP) Technologist to join our team.

In this regular full-time position, you will work at three sites in Victoria (Victoria General Hospital, Royal Jubilee Hospital and Saanich Peninsula Hospital) Monday to Friday. Currently, 1-2 IntraOperative NeuroMonitoring (IONM) cases per month are done at the Victoria General Hospital, with the potential to increase. When not in the OR, you will perform electroencephalograms (EEG), nerve conduction studies (NCV), evoked potentials (EP), videonystagmography (VNG), vestibular evoked myogenic potential (VEMP), electroretinography (ERG) and electrooculography (EOG) testing.

The salary range is $29.14 - $36.35/hourly.

Qualifications

You have at least 2 years' experience in a similar role since graduation from a recognized program in Electroneurophysiology Technology, plus additional IntraOperative NeuroMonitoring (IONM) training and education. You have CNIM certification or are eligible to write the exam. You are currently registered in EEG and certified by the Canadian Board of Registration of Electroencephalograph Technologists (CBRET) or the American Board of Electroencephalograph Technologists (ABRET). Additional desirable qualifications include certification by the Association of Electromyography Technologists of Canada (AETC) and registration in evoked potentials.

Your background demonstrates your knowledge of aseptic techniques and ability to operate the equipment and perform tests at the patient's bedside. You are organized, self-motivated, and show good judgment. You are comfortable working with all age groups. You are able to prioritize multiple and changing demands, work under minimal supervision, and have effective and tactful communication skills (Proficient in English).
